This promotion of Mr. Park is well deserved. He has for eight or ten years been in the employ of the U. P. company as passenger conductor and has proven himself to be a capable railroad man. His friends here in his old home are glad to see him advanced and also to have him and his wife again become residents.

THE END OF TWO LIVES

Edward Newman Patally Shoots His The most shocking tragedy which has marked the history of North Platte was enacted Thursday afternoon between four and five o'clock, and resulted in sending the souls of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Newman into the presence of the God who

On Thursday morning Newman, who was employed on the night force at the round-house, returned from his work and a quarrel ensued between himself and wife, the immediate cause of which is not definitely known and never will be. The white-winged dove of peace eventually settled over the household and Newman, as was his custom, went to bed to secure needed sleep and rest. Shortly after dinner the husband arose and it is said renewed the quarrel with his wife and induced her to take a walk. They went out to the cemetery and found Gus Smith digging a grave. Quite a conversation ensued between Newman and Smith, the former asking the latter what he charged for digging graves and if he would not dig two proportionately cheaper than one. Newman, it is said, also asked his wife how she would like to fill a grave, to which the woman made some evasive reply. He again turned to Smith and asked how soon he was going home, to which Smith replied that it would be an hour or more. Mr. and Mrs. Newman then walked away and sat down on the railing of a lot and shortly afterwards got up and started toward home. When they entered the house, as appears from the evidence given by Ella Jenkins, the ten years old daughter of dered Mrs. Newman by a former marriage, Newman drew a revolver and announced his intention of killing his wife. The girl becoming alarmed fled from the house and ran to a neighboring house and told the gentleman that her papa was trying to kill her mamma. The man attempted to pacify the girl, but without avail, and finally concluded that perhaps it would be best to find an officer. After considerable search he found Marshal Huntington who accompanied him to the Newman home. Finding the door locked, the officer went to a window and peering in abouts of Dennis Redmond, who left his saw two prostrate forms on the bed. The home in this city three weeks ago, re- door was then burst open and the marshal mains unsolved. A Satisfactory Entertainment THE TRIBUNE believes that it but voices the sentiment of the large audience present when it says that the entertainment at Unitarian hall Monday evening was an exceptionally good one. The lack of proper scenery proved somewhat unfavorable to the presentation of the Shakesperian selections, but the renditions were n every instance creditable.

Few actors would attempt to do what Mr. Heathcote did Monday evening, namely, appear in seven different characters, yet he very successfully rendered his parts and again demonstrated to a North Platte audience his ability as an actor. Respectfully,

L. STRICKLER. During the epidemic of flux in this county last summer, I had hard work to keep a supply of Chamberlain's Colic. Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy on hand. People often came ten or twelve miles in the night to get a bottle of the Remedy. I have been selling patent medicines for the last ten years and find that it has given better satisfaction in cases of diarrhoea and flux, than any other medicine I have ever handled.

J. H. BENHAM, Druggist, Golconda, Pope Co., Ill. Over five hundred bottles of this Remedy were sold in that county during the epidemic referred to. It was a perfect success and was the only remedy that did Baving concluded to remove from cure the worst cases. Dozens of persons there will certify that it saved their lives. In four other epidemics of bowel complaint this Remedy has been equally successful. 25 and 50 cent bottles for West Fifth Street. | sale by A. F. Streitz.
